FACULTY

Letter From the Senior Class President

Dear Class of 2016,

Our time here at Belmont High has finally come to an end. It's been a long four years but the time has really flown by. We've all had our ups and downs, but we hope that everyone is able to stand back at the end of their senior year and be proud of everything they have managed to accomplish at the high school. We are truly blessed to live in a community with such passionate and skillful students. Going through senior year was hard at times, not only with pressing deadlines and college and future decision, but also with the onset of a feeling of nostalgia and finality. As we journeyed through senior year we experienced a lot of lasts. The last time we laced up our cleats to play our favorite sport, the last time we giggled through lockdown practices, the last time we sneakily ate a bag of chips in the library so Ms. Landry wouldn't notice (or would notice, I don't know), and the last time we walked through the halls to see so many familiar faces. We are approaching a new frontier in all of our lives that will catapult us into new beginnings. Some of us are excited to start anew, and others cling to memories of our time at BHS with bittersweet sentiment. However, we think that across the board everyone at BHS can look back on their four years and see the tremendous growth we have all made from squirming freshmen into the intelligent and hard-working young adults we are today. We hope that all of our graduating seniors can look back on their time with a sense of fondness and closure as many of us do already.

You've journeyed through some of the most confusing, awkward years of your life and you did with the people you grew up with. From group chats that never end to sport seasons you wish wouldn't either, you gained friends that helped you grow into the person you are today. At times I think some of us felt like we would miss the experiences we had and that we wouldn't experience the same kind of things again, and I'm sure others of us have felt like we couldn't wait to get out. Regardless, it's important to remember what we have done in our time here, and even as the experiences have drawn to a close we will continue to carry them with us and they will define and shape who we are for the rest of our lives. The bond we share as a class, as individuals who have worked together to achieve greatness, is something that is very special and something that shouldn't soon be forgotten, something that will hopefully continue to grow into the future.

Best of luck in all of your future endeavors,
Trey Butler and the rest of the class officers

If we all learned to love one another, there wouldn't be any war, any violence and death rates would be down.

If we all learned to understand each other this generation wouldn't be as corrupted as it is today. If all would take the chance to put our heads together, this world would be close to perfect.
